COUNCILS AND ASSEMBLIES.

1918.

The Functions of a Legislative Assembly are performed by the Governor and Court of Policy, except as regards taxation and finance which are dealt with by the Combined Court—i.e., the Governor and Court of Policy combined with six Financial Representatives.

The Governor and Court of Policy pass all Ordinances, except Tax and Customs Duties Ordinances which are passed by the Combined Court.

The Combined Court has the power of raising taxes and of examining all public accounts, and may, during the term of the Civil List, discuss in detail, freely and without reserve, the several items of the Annual Estimate, but can only decrease or strike off any item and cannot increase it. The Governor does not attend the meetings of the Combined Court when assembled as a Committee of Ways and Means.

The Court of Policy is composed of the Governor, four Ex Officio and three Official Members, and eight non-Official Members. The latter, with the Financial Representatives, are elected by their several constituencies and serve until the dissolution of the Court which takes place every five years.

The Governor or, in his absence, the senior Member present, sits as President of the Court of Policy and of the Combined Court in each of which he has a deliberative as well as a casting vote. The Governor alone can initiate money votes, and no Bill can be introduced without his sanction.

The Executive Council consists of the Governor, the Government Secretary, the Attorney General, and others nominated from time to time by the Crown

COURSE OF EXCHANGE.

REMARKS.

The area of the colony may be classed approximately as follows :—

(i.) Mountain and High Plateaux region	...	7,414,000	Acres.
(ii.) Pastoral Savannas in Hinterland	...	3,068,000	"
(iii.) Forest covered, hilly and rolling land	...	35,920,000	"
(iv.) Easily accessible land suitable for arable and pastoral pursuits...	...	10,865,000	"
		57,267,000	"

About 3,000,000 acres of the easily accessible land suitable for arable and pastoral pursuits are savannah lands of which about half is fertile and well adapted for pasturage, the remainder is either occupied by shallow natural and artificial lakes or is slightly elevated and arenaceous.

By far the greater part of the Pastoral savannah in the Hinterland is suitable for pasturage.

The forest-covered hilly and rolling land is in many parts well suited and is largely available for Hevea rubber cultivation. The total area of Crown Land leased for rubber cultivation is 10,441 English acres.

* 76,300 acres are on sugar plantations.

QUARRIES.		FISH.		General Remarks.
Quantity produced and Value in Sterling.	Names of the Mineral Substances.	Number of Ships and Boats employed.			Value in Sterling.
		Ships.	Boats.
Granite, Quartz, and Basalt with small quantities of metal in them. None of them have ever formed an Article of Export.		Three schooners are sent out from Georgetown for deep-sea fishing in the blue water outside. The fish principally taken are the Red Snapper (Neomænis Aya) which reaches to a weight of 30 or 40 lbs., and the Groupers (Genus Epini: phelus) with an occasional so called Dolphin (Coryphaena).		The fishes on sale in the Market, Georgetown, are mainly caught off the Coast by seines. The greater portion are Catfishes (Siluridae) including Gilbacker (Sciadeichthys parkeri). Cuirass (Sc. proops , etc.) Tampoco, Twee-twee and Hassar. This class is however, rather coarse; the Mullet, Butter fish, Bungomaree, Snook and Bashaw are better. Jew fish, Tarpon or Cuffum and even Sharks of several species are occasionally seen. There are no records of quantities.	There is abundance of Fish in the waters of the Colony, but as an industrial pursuit fishing is comparatively neglected. Deep sea fishing has, however, been established, and Georgetown is well supplied with Grouper and Red Snapper, &c. There is room for development on the lines of curing and canning as well as catching.
		Ice storage is now provided in Georgetown.				The fishes caught in trenches or canals are Houri, Yarrow, Patwa, Sun-fish and a great number of small species. These form a large portion of the animal food of the poorer classes on estates and in villages. Together with Prawns (called Shrimps), they are actually caught by dipping with hand-nets or baskets in very large quantities.
		A fair number of boats owned mainly by Portuguese, fish off shore for Gilbacker, the sounds of which are sold as fish-glue (Isinglass.) During the past year 29,536 lbs. weight of fish glue has been exported. The flesh of the Gilbacker commands a ready sale amongst the Creoles, who esteem it as a food. It is not unlike Sturgeon in taste and quality.
2,669 tons of Granite were removed from three Quarries held under Licences from the Crown, and 1,190 tons of Granite were quarried at the Penal Settlement on the Mazaruni River during the calendar year, 1918.		Those of the interior are not procurable in Georgetown or along the Coast, but they are very important to the native Indian. Some large species as Arapaima and Pacou are shot with a special kind of arrow about the rapids of the great rivers. Others are hooked or got by poisoning the pools. The best sporting fishes of the Colony are the Cuffum or Tarpon (Tarpon atlanticus); Leukanani (Cichla ocellaris); and Biara (Hydrolycusscombroides); All these will take fly or spoon eagerly.		Cannot be ascertained.	The Curator of the Museum is collecting information with regard to the fishes to be found in the waters of the Colony, their habits, breeding seasons, etc. The Museum contains about 400 species, a large number being new, lately collected and described by Prof. C. Eigenmann.
No Royalty is levied on Stone quarried on Crown Land.		There are fishing boats at every Village on the East and West Coasts, and the fish supplied to Georgetown must form an inconsiderable part of the amount consumed throughout the Colony.				Several species of Acanthophaelus are very common, and like the "Millions" of Barbados useful in keeping down Mosquitos.

* Lands sold are by Grant from the Governor. Crown land is not now being sold, but is leased for periods not exceeding 99 years.
† Woodcutting Licences being only of a temporary nature are not included, nor are Licences to collect Balata as they give no right in the soil.
‡ This information has been obtained from charts and grants on record in the Department of Lands and Mines but the figures given are only approximate and the correctness of them cannot be vouched for. Allowance has been made for the area resumed by the Crown under the Crown Lands Resumption Ordinance, 1905.
§ These figures include 7 licences to collect Cedar and Crabwood with an area of 73,790 acres, and 4 licences to collect Mangrove Bark, with an area of 474,240 acres.

(1) Other than Woodcutting and Balata Collecting Licences.

* The increase in the Acreage in 1898 and two following years was due to the reduction in the price of Crown Lands which was affected by the New Regulations passed in the early part of that year.

† The large excess in the area for 1901-1902 was occasioned by the Proprietors of Estates having hastened to avail themselves of the opportunity to secure the second depths of their Plantations before the coming into operation of Ord. No. 30 of 1900, which abolished the exclusive rights hitherto enjoyed by them to the land in the rear of their properties, and to the fact that the opportunity was taken when issuing these licences of amalgamating in one title all the lands previously licensed.

‡ The decrease in the area for 1902-1903 was due to the maximum area of 100 acres formerly granted to any one individual having been reduced to 25 acres.

§ This large increase in area for 1903-1904 over that of the previous year, was due to—

(a) Several Licences of Occupancy being issued for land in the rear of Estates in the County of Demerara.

(b) 950 acres issued as Free Grants in the North Western District; and

(c) To the preparation of the Instruments for several Grants which had remained on hand from the previous year.

 Includes 5,328 acres leased for Cattle Grazing purposes, and 19,200 acres leased for Woodcutting and other purposes.

(¶) The large number of this kind of Licence is owing to the fact that under the 1910 Crown Lands Regulations Licences are now issued for tracts for which previously Woodcutting Permissions would have been given.

†† Includes 26,580 acres leased for Rubber growing.

‡‡ Reduction due to—

(a) Area of each Lease fixed by Governor of 5 acres except otherwise specially sanctioned; and

(b) To delay in preparation of titles owing to Form of Lease not having been settled by the Government.

¶¶ Under Ordinance No. 20 of 1914, English measure was substituted for Rhyndland measure.

The meteorological station is situated in the Botanic Gardens, Georgetown, at a distance of 1.45 miles south of the coast-line. The hours of observation are 7 a.m., and 1 and 6 p.m., local official time which is 3 hours and 45 minutes behind Greenwich time. The site of the instruments is at the mean sea-level.

During the year 1918, the air temperature in the shade was, except in the months of October and November, lower than the mean recorded over the period 1846-1916. Owing to intense drought the air temperature in October and November was 1° and 1.3° respectively higher than normal. The highest temperature recorded was 90° F. on the 27th of October, and the 8th of November, the lowest, 70° on the night of the 23rd November, a few days after the drought terminated; the mean shade temperature for the year was 79.5° or $.35^{\circ}$ below normal. The total rainfall was somewhat below the normal, being 88.69 inches as compared with 94.37 inches. Its monthly distribution was abnormal, the precipitation in February being 3.65 inches less than normal, in March, April and May, 9.78 inches in excess of normal, whilst from June to December, inclusive, the precipitation was 13.93 inches below normal. From the middle of August to the middle of November precipitation was excessively low thus resulting in a drought of exceptional severity. The evaporation from a free water surface, a six feet square tank, at the ground level was somewhat higher than normal being 66.5% of the total rainfall. The year was marked by an excess of bright sunshine over the normal amounting to 308 hours, the proportion of actual bright sunshine to possible sunshine being 58.9% as compared with 52.3%, the normal ratio. Consequent on this the mean radiation temperature (blackened bulb in vacuo) was 3° higher than normal, the maximum recorded during the year being 160° on the 27th July. The mean minimum temperature recorded at night on grass was 1.5° higher than normal. The mean velocity of the wind was 7.59 miles per hour, the maximum velocity occurring on June 23rd, when 20 miles per hour were registered between 12 noon and 1 p.m.

CABLE COMMUNICATION.

In the matter of its cable communication, the colony is served by the West India and Panama Telegraph Company, under Government Subsidy. Messages transmitted (by the West India and Panama Telegraph Company) from Georgetown to Great Britain pass through the colonies of Trinidad, Grenada and St. Lucia, then through St. Croix, one of the Virgin Islands of the United States of America, and through Puerto Rico, also a dependency of the United States of America to Jamaica. Messages next cross the Island of Cuba to Key West in Florida, then pass overland to New York and finally are transmitted by cable from New York to England. It is possible, however, to send telegraphic messages from Georgetown to London via Bermuda by marking the messages "via Bermuda." In this case, the messages are handed over by the West India and Panama Telegraph Company in Jamaica to the Direct West India Cable Company who forward them to Bermuda, whence they are transmitted by the Halifax-Bermuda Cable Company to Halifax and thence to England. There is no all-British cable communication between Georgetown and London, but wireless telegraph messages can be transmitted from the colony to England through stations which are exclusively British.
